Class Hours: This course will have 52 class hours, including 32 lecture hours, professor 8 office hours, 8-hour TA discussion sessions, 4-hour review sessions.

Course Description

This course will survey the history of Western art from the Renaissance to the present. Lectures and discussion will be supplemented by accompanied by sketching practice, serving both as an aid to memorization and giving an awareness of artistic form and technique.

Course Goals

This course will acquaint students with the key artistic moments, and key artworks, in the West from the Renaissance to the Present. Throughout, the lectures will link the art works to the historical moment of their production. We will also learn the central concepts as well as skills of art interpretation. Finally, exercises in sketching artwork will allow us to consider the acts of creation for the artworks under consideration.

Required Textbooks

Janson's Basic History of Western Art (Pearson)

We will also supply you with a reader that contains additional materials, both primary sources that inform our understanding of the artist or artwork, as well as critical essays that help us interpret it. As well as the assigned textbook reading, you should expect one reading from source material and one critical reading per two-hour lecture.

Course Requirements

Final Grade Percentages

- ◇ Class Participation 10%: regular attendance and participation is requested.
- ◇ 2 Reaction Papers (20% each): you will be asked to write two reaction papers (3 pages) on key artistic movements. Reaction papers will describe the artwork assigned, identify the central innovations and techniques used to create the work, and then consider the relation of that work to the period in which it was created – both as innovation as well as a reflection of aesthetic practice.
- ◇ Midterm 20%
- ◇ Final Exam 30%: overall evaluation at end of semester

A note on participation. This is a lecture course, but students are expected to follow the lectures closely and be prepared to answer occasional questions asked in class by the professor. Students will be expected to participate fully in the discussion sections led by the teaching assistant.
